WASHINGTON (AP) — President Trump signed an executive order late Friday giving federal agencies broad powers to unwind regulations created under the Affordable Care Act. The executive order, signed in the Oval Office as one of the new president's first actions, directs agencies to grant relief to all constituencies affected by the sprawling 2010 health-care law: consumers, insurers, hospitals, doctors, pharmaceutical companies, states and others. The multi-part executive order stated that the administration's official policy is "to seek the prompt repeal" of the Affordable Care Act.
